

There is this peculiar thing about our Hair Vigor: it's a hair-food, not a dye. It doesn't turn your hair suddenly black and make it look dead and lifeless. But gradually the old color comes back, all the rich color is used to have. And it also stops falling of the hair.

Even if your hair isn't coming out, isn't turning gray, isn't too short, yet you certainly want a fine dressing for it, and here it is.

Ayer's Hair Vigor

It keeps the scalp clean and healthy, removes all dandruff, makes the hair grow rapidly, prevents it from falling out, and does not allow a single gray hair to appear.

Do not be deceived by cheap imitations which will only disappoint you. Make sure that you get the genuine Ayer's Hair Vigor.

The only desirable means of reaching the Volcano. Connections at Mountain View with stages daily—morning trains going; afternoon trains returning. Fare from Hilo for the round trip $8. This route is through Olua plantation, the largest in Hawaii, virgin forests of koa and wild ferns, and through many coffee farms.

The natural wonders of Puna make that district the most interesting spot in Hawaii. One can spend a most delightful day exploring the underground caves, swimming in the famous Hot Springs and resting on the cool shores of Green Lake.

Excursion tickets between all points are sold on Saturdays and Sundays, good returning, until the following Monday noon.

Commutation tickets, good for twenty-five rides between any two points, and thousand mile tickets are sold at very low rates.

KRUEGERS MEMOIRS.

They Tell of Events Leading Up to African Conflict.

London, Oct. 29.—It is understood that the "Krueger Memoirs," of which a first installment of extracts has already been published in the Times, give a narrative of the diplomatic aspects of the Boer war and advise the Boers as to the best policy to be pursued after Krueger's death. A striking feature of the memoirs is a revelation of the jealousies which existed before the war began between the inhabitants of the Transvaal and the Orange Free State and the Cape Colony Boers, which prevented anything like a satisfactory mutual understanding. Krueger takes pains to prove that he did his utmost to smooth matters over and prevent the war, but the Boers' in-born antipathy to foreign interference proved to be too strong for him. Krueger closes his memoirs with these words:

"I am convinced that God will not forsake his people even although it appears so, and I acquiesce in the will of the Lord, knowing he will not allow an afflicted people to perish. The Lord hath all hearts in his hand and he turneth them whithersoever he will."

This aspiration is a clew to the contents of the whole book, which is less a source of historical information throwing new or striking light upon the events dealt with than a "human document" of psychological value, revealing personal traits of the ex-President. The memoirs are but a sketchy summary of past events, with Krueger's personal comments thereon.

Ants' Jaws in Surgery.

The Indians of Brazil have a curious method of stitching up a gash which is quite as efficient as a silver wire or prepared silk of the modern surgeons, and much easier to do, besides which there is no necessity for a skilled hand, says the Philadelphia Public Ledger, and the materials are handy almost everywhere in the Brazilian forest. These materials are a species of very large ant, which has mandibles which can bite through almost anything. One of the peculiarities of this ant is that when it catches hold of anything with these jaws it cannot be made to let go. Even if the rest of the body is pulled off these two jaws still keep their hold.

What the Brazilian Indian does when he receives a gash is this: He catches some of these ants, and, holding them to the wound, which he has previously closed together, lets them bite. They fix their mandibles on each side of the wound, and then he pinches off the rest of the body. The jaws do not come apart, and so a row of these ants' heads keeps a wound together as well as the surgeon's needle and wire would do, and as the bite of these ants is not poisonous this rough-and-ready surgery is quite efficient.

Black Diamond.

The only place in the world where that form of carbon known as the black diamond, or bort, is found in marketable quantities is in Bahia, in South America. The substance is used for points for stone drills and saws, and is powdered and used to polish diamonds and other precious stones. There is a wide and growing demand for it. The black diamond is found with the ordinary diamonds in the Bahia fields, and brings about ten dollars a carat. The largest carbon ever found weighed 3150; it was bought from the miner for $16,000; was afterward purchased for $25,000, and was sent to Paris, where it was broken up and sold to the trade. The average size is about six carats. The annual output is decreasing as the demand grows larger and the price is mounting. It is probably only a question of time when a black diamond combination will be formed to work the small area with modern machinery. The present methods are very primitive.—New York Post.

Coal Statistics.

The English product of coal for the year 1900 shows a total of 247,938,725 metric tons, while the United States comes in a close second with 244,901,839 metric tons. The entire world's product for the same year was 767,636,204 metric tons.

THE MAD AMERICAN.

Schwab Spends Money Like Water—Actions Cause Friends Worry.

Pittsburg, Oct. 29.—The Dispatch will print the following tomorrow from its London correspondent: "The condition and actions of C. M. Schwab, president of the United States Steel Corporation, have become the chief topic in London. The Continental press today conveys further details of his conduct in Rome and the Italian provinces. These have been supplemented by a private letter received by an American from Rome today, according to which the American millionaire is spending money with a recklessness fairly amazing to the European mind."

"It is said in this letter that half the professional beggars in Italy are besieging Schwab. The steel king is continually on the go. It is current gossip that the idiosyncrasies of Schwab have been the cause of some worry to the officers of the steel corporation."

The letter closes: "Am afraid Schwab will not experience rapid recovery. His friends and attendants are under a great strain, owing to his incessant recklessness. I understand that he will be taken to Egypt, or even around the world in the hope that change of scene will prove beneficial. He is throwing money away like water. When he appears in public he attracts almost as great a crowd as the King himself. He is referred to everywhere as 'the mad American.'"

The Trackless Trolley.

The average electric railway manager often finds himself confronted with a situation where a certain amount of traffic could be secured by the construction of a short spur to his main track, but where there is considerable doubt whether enough passengers can be secured, certainly at first, to put the line on a paying basis. Again, there may be places where the right to lay tracks either cannot be obtained or else will be given only under such burdensome restrictions that it will not be profitable. To both of these cases the trackless trolley seems particularly adapted. If the future should show that the traffic is not sufficient to justify the road, the expense of installation has been very slight, while, on the other hand, if the traffic should grow, the ordinary track can be laid and used with the same overhead wires, while the trolley omnibus can be relegated to another branch, where it can develop another traffic territory. Still another instance where this system, if it is practicable, can be used, is in a small town where there is no trolley system and where current to operate the line can be purchased from a local lighting company. Two systems of this kind are employed abroad. In one the trolley is of ordinary under-running type, and the two poles carried on the bus are similar to those on a car, except that they are longer and are swiveled both at the base and at the harp, so that a certain amount of variation in running is possible. In the other system the trolley runs on top of the wire, as in the old early Van de Poole system, and is connected to the omnibus by two flexible wires.—Baltimore Sun.

CHAMBERLAIN'S COUGH REMEDY is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup, whooping cough and influenza. It has become famous for its cures of these diseases over a large part of the civilized world. The most flattering testimonials have been received, giving accounts of its good works; of the aggravating and persistent coughs it has cured; of severe colds that have yielded promptly to its soothing effects, and of the dangerous attacks of croup it has cured, often saving the life of the child. The extensive use of it for whooping cough has shown that it robs that disease of all dangerous results. It is especially prized by mothers because it contains nothing injurious and there is not the least danger in giving it, even to babies. It always cures and cures quickly. The Hilo Drug Store sells it. *
